This tutorial shows you how to create colorful filter effects with Adobe Photoshop Elements 15.1. This tutorial uses layers to create the effects shown in the previous image. Layers are the building block of Photoshop. They are like walls, floors and doors. You can put objects on any layer you want but they will only stay on that layer. If you change the position of a layer, it will move with that layer. You don't need to use layers to create effects, but if you just click on the "Layers" layer in the layers palette, you will see a dialog box with all of your layers. Let's create a new layer. Go to "New" in the "Layers" palette and name the layer "Filter layer". Let's add some layers, change the opacity to 50 percent and make a shape on each layer. Select "Rectangular marquee tool" from the toolbox. Drag the white box in the lower right corner of the image to create a new layer. Go to "Layer" menu and choose "Convert to Smart Object". Use the "Magic Wand" tool to select the contents of the original image. Go to "Edit" menu and choose "Fill". The content of the shape will disappear and the new shape will appear. Change the fill color to a darker tone of blue and also change the tint. Press "CTRL+T" to make a selection around the whole shapes in the shapes layer. Go to "Layer" menu and choose "Mask to Selection". Go to "Layer" menu and choose "Merge Down". Press "Ctrl+J" to merge the two layers. Now we are ready to move the new layer. Select "Move" in the "Layers" palette and drag the new layer below the layer with the rectangle shape. Change the opacity of the original layer to 100 percent and the opacity of the new layer to 50 percent. Also change the blend mode of the filters layer to "Screen". Open "Filters" in the

"Layers" palette and apply "Colorize" filter to the "Filter layer" layer. You can change the filter's settings as you wish. Press "CTRL+I" to invert the color. Duplicate the layer and use the "Merge Down" tool to merge the two layers. Select "Filter" in the "Layers" palette, 05a79cecff

Smartphone movie reviews: 'Five Days of War,' 'The Hunt' The newest Apple Watch will replace former iOS and Android Wear devices. The new watch is different from its predecessors, as it will not work alongside a smartphone. Instead, the device has a digital watch face. It lets users check messages and calls, and get an overview of upcoming calendar events. The new feature comes in handy for those who don't have smartphones, but just want to know the time. There is no price yet for the new Apple Watch, but the company said that is expected to happen sometime in the third quarter. The Apple Watch is the first device of its kind to run on iOS, so it will make Apple a powerhouse in the smartwatch world. Other watches from companies like LG, Motorola, Samsung and Pebble run on Google's Android OS. Several companies have partnered with Apple to put their smartphones and operating systems on a smartwatch, but Apple Watch's Apple Watch OS is the only one so far. The Apple Watch is the first wearable device that has its own app store and its own web browser, and you won't need a computer to use it. 'Five Days of War' "Vietnam, 1969. Despite American promises of political freedom, the U.S. continued to contain and confine its citizenry. This five-day span of U.S. violence was not just a "price of war," it was an open declaration of violent aggression and occupation. In "Five Days of War," renowned historical researcher Danee Larkin rescues the myth of American innocence from the battered and forgotten wreckage of Vietnam. Danee opens our eyes with the story of the My Lai Massacre, and as she reveals the lies and horror of the war machine, she weaves the stories of the men who were there, and those who died because of them. 'Five Days of War' is a stunning debut, the beginning of a storied career of unearthing forgotten victims of an unspeakable American legacy." (5/5) "The Hunt" "The Hunt" was directed by Kieran Evans and co-written with Bill Marsden, and stars Matthias Schoenaerts, Vincent Cassel, Frances McDormand, Sam Rockwell, Timothée Chalam

O deputado federal Jair Bolsonaro (PSC-RJ) falou de uma possível incerteza política do partido do presidente eleito Jair Bolsonaro. O parlamentar do PSC afirmou na noite desta quinta-feira (18) que "não vai dizer se vou ficar ou não na esquerda" porque isso pode gerar uma "incerteza política" que impedirá o partido de tomar decisões. "Nem sei se vou ficar ou não na esquerda porque, se for durante as eleições, nós temos de dar uma denúncia de comportamento irregular", disse. Bolsonaro foi pego em referência a um discurso que o pré-candidato do PSL fez em maio passado. Ele afirmou que não se descarta não ficar na esquerda nem trabalhar para derrubar a esquerda. Na ocasião, Bolsonaro afirmou que se considerasse uma vitória eleitoral "não exclui a possibilidade de continuar na esquerda". Após a declaração, o deputado paulista Caio Conserj afirmou que a equipe de campanha da legenda no Rio de Janeiro considerou a atitude como "errada". Ele disse que a estratégia das pré-candidaturas é manter a bancada na Câmara e que, nesse caso, não haveria impedimentos para Bolsonaro seguir rumo à esquerda. "Eu tenho, inclusive, esse entendimento e quero me certificar de que todos que apoiam o candidato no Rio de Janeiro, bem como na Câmara dos Deputados e nas ruas, que gostariam de dar essa chance para ele fazer a campanha no Rio de Janeiro, de que estamos todos unidos". Conserj afirmou que a man
